

TEETER TOLD WOLFORD WILL RETURN HERE

District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter received a telegram from Florida Saturday afternoon asserting that Albert L. Wolford, former police officer and gas station operator here before becoming a policeman at Delray Beach, Fla., would return here to face a charge of violating the state's bulk sales act.

The telegram, sent to the district attorney by Sheriff John F. Kirk of Palm Beach county, said: "I am advised by attorney for Albert L. Wolford that Wolford will leave here to give himself up to Pennsylvania authorities."

To Seek Explanation

Teeter said he would get in touch with Florida authorities "to see what the telegram means." He added: "I don't know whether this is an offer to return or whether Wolford is actually on his way here."

The charge on which the former policeman is "wanted" here involves an alleged violation of the bulk sales act in the sale of a service station on Buford avenue to Ralph Miller.

Wolford was arrested and released in $500 bond in Florida. Governor Duff signed extradition papers last week. Teeter said today he had not heard what disposition had been made in Florida of the governor's request.

MOTHER'S DAY SPEAKER SAYS HOME LIFE IS BEST INFLUENCE

Largely attended Mother's Day services were conducted by the Gettysburg Lodge of Elks Sunday evening at the Elks home on York street.

The Rev. Edward K. Stipe, supply pastor of the Methodist church and a faculty member of Gettysburg college, was the speaker.

"What home base is to a baseball game, so home is to the game of life," said the speaker. "It is that crucial place in life where the game can be won or lost. It is the most important and powerful influence that enters into, and helps mold, our life."

"Home is the home base for husband-wife relations. It is the place where we make or break our marriage partnership. We cultivate habits in the home and through love and courtesy learn to respect each other's task. We find that divorce is less frequent in homes where the church is important."

Character Formation

Continuing the Rev. Mr. Stipe said, "Consider again the home as home base for character formation in our children. The home has been called 'the most influential school in the world.' Educators tell us that some of the basic personality trends are begun early in childhood, and most of the child's time is spent in the home."

"Home is also the home base for our society. The strength of the nation depends upon the strength of the home. Where America is strong today, there is reflected the strength of the American home life."

In concluding the Rev. Mr. Stipe added, "My plea with you this evening is: Make your home and family life a real influence for good on yourself, your loved ones, and in your nation, so whenever your thoughts turn to home you can honestly say 'There's no place like home.'"

5,707 VISIT BATTLEFIELD

Gettysburg battlefield guides recorded an even 100 trips Sunday, which, combined with 56 guided trips on Saturday and 19 bus loads of visitors, 13 Saturday and six Sunday, brought an estimated 5,707 persons here over the week-end. The number was just under the battlefield visitation for the previous week-end.

According to figures compiled by Vernon S. Lunt, superintendent of the National cemetery, 2,323 persons toured the field Saturday, and 3,384 on Sunday.

The azaleas are in full bloom, and were at the peak of their blossoming Sunday, Mr. Lunt said. The Judas trees, or red bud, which have been blossoming for the past week, are beginning to lose their blossoms, but the dogwood is still in bloom.

Fire Damages Birthplace Of Jennie Wade Early Sunday

An early Sunday morning fire caused damage estimated at $1,000 to one of Gettysburg's historic landmarks, a two story frame house at 246 Baltimore street, birthplace of Jennie Wade, the only civilian killed during the battle of Gettysburg.

Two persons reside in the double house, Ebenezer Sites and his son, Francis. Fire Chief James A. Aumen said the fire was probably caused from a cigarette which the young man said he had placed on an ash-tray before retiring for the night.

Mrs. Marcella Harpster, who lives at 229 Baltimore street, nearly opposite the Wade house, discovered the fire shortly after 1 o'clock, when she went to her door with guests who had spent the evening at her home.

Mrs. Harpster notified the telephone operator of the location of the fire, then ran across Baltimore street to rouse Mr. Sites, who was asleep in a rear room on the south side of the house.

The son, asleep in the front room, was awakened by the smoke. He was forced to flee in his night clothing and was taken to the home of a neighbor.

Firemen used several lines of water and prevented the flames, which licked up the front of the house, from completely destroying the old landmark.

Worse damage was to the front room, where the younger Sites had been sleeping. Its interior was badly charred. Flames also burned the front of the house and ate into a cornice before being extinguished.

The house is owned by John White Johnston, of Rochester, N. Y. It was once the office of a Dr. Moriarity, local veterinarian.

Many See Firemen's Display Saturday

Hundreds of persons attended the Gettysburg fire company's "open house" at the fire engine house Saturday night, making up for the seeming lack of interest and poor attendance the first two nights, Thursday and Friday.

The engine house was filled with those who inspected the equipment and saw the movies and fire prevention displays. Many signed cards for the radio file which will be used for the better location of fires and quicker response in the event of calls for assistance.

Saturday afternoon the crowds were also large, but a large number of them were children.

CARL L. KELLER TO COMPETE IN STATE CONTEST

Carl L. Keller, Gettysburg high school entrant in the two-county FFA tractor-driving contest held Saturday at New Oxford, won the right to represent Adams and Franklin counties in the state events against competitors from seven other high schools.

Keller was selected by the judges as having done the best job of starting a tractor, hitching to a spreader, replacing the spreader, hitching to a corn sheller, running the corn sheller, backing into a stall and then returning the tractor to its original parking space.

For the contest, the judges checked whether the driver fulfilled all safety requirements for operation of the tractor, measured the distance that the tractor's wheels were from the sides of the various "stalls" it had to enter, counted against the driver every extra backing that he had to make in order to hitch to the various equipment and backup to line up the draw bar with a stake driven into the ground and measured the distance from the center of the pulley of the belt between the tractor and the corn sheller.

DILWORTH IS GREETED HERE ON SATURDAY

Richardson Dilworth, Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, announced Saturday at a "get acquainted" meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg here that he plans a "street corner campaign" for the forthcoming elections in November.

Dilworth plans to speak to county Democrats June 5 at a dinner meeting to be held at the Cross Keys Hotel, County Chairman Fred G. Klunk said.

Dilworth asked if it would be possible to speak from Lincoln square here, during his campaign. He said: "It doesn't matter whether the crowd that gathers is five people, 50 or 500. I think that the people should have an opportunity to see the candidate and hear what he has to say. They should be able to ask him questions, and that is the advantage of talking to only a few people at a time."

Makes Fine Score

Keller made an almost perfect score, making his connections between tractor and equipment with a minimum of backing. The eight entrants in the area contest were selected in contests held by the local FFA chapters in Franklin and Adams counties.

Others in the contest included Donald March, representing Biglerville; Glenn Herr, New Oxford; Richard Claybaugh, East Berlin; Paul Hornbaker, Chambersburg; Charles Barnes, Lemasters; Howard Shearer, Fannetsburg and Charles Miller, St. Thomas.

Judges for the event included: Millard Fitzgerald, Franklin county veterans agriculture teacher; Carl Seifrit, Biglerville, Edwin Rice, Ardentville; James Clark, Gettysburg high practice teacher; Paul Benschoff and Carroll Fitzgerald, Biglerville high school practice teachers. Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—Two men in a helicopter risked their lives today to save a woman clinging to a rock above the Horseshoe falls of the Niagara river.

A dramatic rescue was effected with a second helicopter, after the first had pitched its two occupants into the water and exploded.

The woman, Mrs. Jeannette Bury, 25, of Niagara Falls, suffered from shock and exposure and was hospitalized.

Her husband, Sigmund, a taxicab driver, said she had suffered a nervous breakdown and had been ill for some time.

Helicopter Wrecked
Two park employees, Herbert Sedita and John Paonessa, heard her screaming as she clung to a rock 75 feet from an island about 300 feet above the Horseshoe, or Canadian, falls.

Sedita fastened a rope around his waist and waded into the swift current. He was swept off his feet. Paonessa hauled him back.

The Bell Aircraft Corporation then dispatched Owen Q. Niehaus, Grand Island, 28, and Joseph A. Cannon, 30, Niagara Falls, in a helicopter.

The pontoon-equipped craft landed on the water near the woman, but nosed over. The engine exploded. Niehaus and Cannon were pitched into the river. They struggled back aboard. The helicopter drifted toward the cataract. It caught on a rock, however, and the men managed to lash Mrs. Bury to the undercarriage while they awaited help.

Rescued By Boat
Shore rescuers twice tried unsuccessfully to get a rowboat to them, then summoned another helicopter.

The second helicopter arrived and hovered low enough to drop one end of a rope ashore, then dropped the other end to the stranded pilots.

The rope then was used to pull the row boat to the wrecked helicopter. First ashore were Mrs. Bury and Niehaus. Cannon made it in the second trip.

Mrs. Bury was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where it was reported her condition was "uncertain."

PRR Trains Running In Spite Of Pickets

Harrisburg, Pa., May 15 (AP)—The strike-crippled Pennsylvania railroad, acting while pickets marched at railroad yards here, stepped up the movement of its freight trains to the west today.

The strikers, members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, set up picket lines to protest the operation of trains to the west and north from this rail crossroads and to try to halt the railroad's operations to the east and south.

But the road continued to move out freights to the west and kept its eastern freight and passenger lines operating on schedule. It declined to say who was operating the trains.

A PRR spokesman said he could not estimate how many trains the railroad will send west today, but he said the number will be greater than the 42 freights moved yesterday. Normally, the road sends out 1,500 freights a day on its strike-affected lines north and west of Harrisburg.

Airlines Plane Assists Bomber

Lock Haven, Pa., May 15 (AP)—A lost navy torpedo bomber with three persons aboard made a safe landing here last night with the aid of radio instructions from an airlines passenger plane.

The navy plane, piloted by Ensign Fred Holler, 23, of Ames, Iowa, was en route from O'Hare Air Force Base, Chicago, to the naval air station at Atlantic City, N. J., when its blind flying instruments failed during a heavy fog.

Holler radioed for help and the message was picked up by an All-American Airways plane piloted by Capt. Millard Lossing. Lossing managed to guide the lost navy plane by radio to a safe landing here.

In addition to Holler, the navy bomber crew included Air Mechanic Don Miller, 26, Calumet City, Ill., and Radioman Arvin Bockenstedt, 19, Dyersville, Iowa.

Court Holds Up License Suspension

Orington Brown, Hanover R. 3, will be driving at least until June 12, according to a decision of the Adams county court. Brown, through his attorney, Eugene R. Hartman, appealed to the court from a suspension ordered by the State Department of Revenue.

According to Brown's petition, filed with the prothonotary, he received a notice from the state suspending his license indefinitely as of April 13 because of his failure to take a special examination. He claims that he never received a notice to take an examination, and that the first he heard of it was when he received the suspension order.

In addition, he claims that in his driving career, dating back to 1918, he has never had an accident involving a report to the State Revenue department and that he has never been arrested for any violation of the traffic rules. The court directed that Brown's license be returned pending a hearing on June 12.

Nine errors by Orrtanna proved disastrous as Hanover chalked up a 6-1 victory at Orrtanna. The defeat was the fourth in as many games for Orrtanna who collected but five hits.

Fairfield rapped out 10 hits to trounce Littlestown 9-3 at Fairfield. J. Scott poled a homerun for the winners. Littlestown aided the Fairfield cause with six miscues.

A five-way tie for first place in the South Penn Baseball league exists as a result of games played Sunday afternoon.

A pair of runs, due largely to a pair of safe bunts in the first inning, enabled Granite to eke out a 3-2 victory over Gettysburg at Granite. Each team secured but five hits during the game which resolved itself into a pitchers' duel between Mike Tate of Gettysburg and Tony Clapper.

Green Springs rallied for three runs in the last of the sixth inning to hand Greenmount its initial loss at Green Springs 6-4. The winners garnished 12 hits while Laughman held Greenmount to but three.

Hunterstown was also knocked out of the unbeaten class by Brushtown 6-3. Errors played a prominent role in Hunterstown's downfall. Murren was the winning pitcher while King and Little divided the pitching for Hunterstown.

Barlow handed Bonneauville its third successive defeat at Bonneauville 9-4.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DEAD STORAGE

In many a store-house, and many a garret, are useful, often precious things, but which amount to no more than dead storage—earning nothing, benefiting no one. There are even people who make of their minds and hearts dead storage places for what ought to be benefiting and inspiring others.

The one who merely reads, observes, travels, and contacts people, just to learn something which he never distributes, or who, by nature and birth, could express his love and sympathy, as well as understanding, but keeps it forever housed in his heart—such a person might just as well himself be in dead storage!

I recently read in my newspaper that there were some forty million Chinese people wandering about hungry—starving for food. That is something that should never happen in this great world of plenty—but there are more people than the food-hungry people of China, who wander through life hungry in heart, hungry for love, appreciation, understanding.

What a different world this would be if everyone dispensed with his dead storage and made it a daily habit to distribute his excess gifts all about him! Thus becoming a better friend and companion, and being enthusiastically welcomed everywhere. How few there are to whom we can freely and happily confide and consult, without being misunderstood.

Secrets of great beauty go to the grave unrevealed. Possibilities that might have changed and enriched many a life slip out noiselessly and unknown from many a mind and heart dead-storage chamber. I wonder why it is? The brother of the great naturalist, W. H. Hudson, once said that of all men he ever knew he knew his brother least. Through the writings of this superb writer, however, great beauty flowed. Many of us recall the broadcast of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes on his ninetieth birthday. I quote but a few words. Said he: "For to live is to function. That is all there is in living." To the very end he lived out his life. There was no room for any dead storage in the mind that he managed.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Beautiful Soul."

PILL TAKERS

Gay twenty will tell you that forty seems old.
The forties, the coats of the sixties will hold.
All say that a man is as young as he feels.
Until he has pills he must take after meals.

Age shouldn't be reckoned by counting the years.
Nor when at the temples the silver appears.
But a man's getting on when his pocket reveals
A collection of pills he must take after meals.

One look around the table; the women and men
Are as young as they feel. I repeat it again.
But don't draw attention to one who conceals
The pill that she carries to take after meals.

Just mind your own business, you youngsters so gay.
If you live, Time will take your digestion away.
And whenever that asset the old fellow steals
You, too, will be taking a pill after meals.

Garden Mulch Kills Weeds And Keeps The Soil Moist

Heavy mulch is better for tomatoes than cultivation.

Mulches covering the soil around growing plants are a substitute for cultivation which is growing in favor. They have long been used by practical gardeners, and various materials have been tried for covering the ground, to prevent weeds growing and shade the surface.

Paper mulch, and even stones and slabs of concrete have been experimented with. But tests by the Ohio state experiment station, emphasizing the importance of soil aeration, indicate that the best mulching materials allow free circulation of air through the top eight inches of soil.

Mulches of fresh organic material, such as manure, straw, alfalfa, peat moss, lawn clippings and others, stabilize the granular structure of soils and prevent surface compaction, says an Ohio report.

In testing various mulching materials, it was found that when seeds of Cheving's fescue grass were sown between plant rows, it produced the same effect as a good manure mulch, at considerably less expense.

Sown at the rate of three pounds to 100 square feet, this grass makes a thick growth, the report says. Cheving's fescue is used because it withstands shade cast by the plants. Toward fall the grass dies out. Crop production is said to be as good as when any other mulching material is used, and the cost less.

This suggests that home gardeners can sow grass seed between rows of flowers and vegetables and instead of cultivating, use a lawnmower. Rye grass is suggested for garden use rather than a fescue.

Waste lumber is used by some gardeners, to shade the ground between rows. By laying down boards when planting the garden, and walking on them rather than the soil, the ground is kept loose, and by shifting the boards between rows, weeds can be killed without hoeing.

Excellent results can be obtained from a heavy mulch of dry lawn clippings, applied a little at a time. The first application should be well mixed with the top soil; and then it may be built up to several inches in thickness, so that weeds are kept down and evaporation checked, but at the same time rains are allowed to penetrate the soil. Tomatoes especially like a mulch of this kind.

BUSY SEASON'S HERE IN GARDEN

From now until the end of June, successive planting of gladiolus at two-week intervals can be made to insure a long blooming season. Before planting the corns, dip them in a corrosive sublimate solution for two hours and plant them as soon as dry.

Lilacs should be cut with long stems to take care of the pruning which is needed early. Remove the suckers growing around the base.

Newly planted trees and shrubs benefit from a light mulch of peat moss, grass clippings or leaves. This material prevents the soil from drying out.

Perennial seeds should be sown as soon as possible to obtain strong plants for transplanting to the borders next fall.

Mulch strawberry plants with straw, hay or some similar material to keep the fruit from being splattered with mud when it rains.

Tent caterpillars are a serious pest during the spring. Burning out the nests with a torch is effective but may result in serious harm to the trees. A safer and equally effective method is to spray the plants with arsenate of lead at the rate of four level tablespoons to a gallon of water.

Reducing ravages. Corn should be replanted as soon as damages are apparent.

Gardeners who have never grown the superior yellow sweet corns should not allow inherent prejudices to interfere. The yellow varieties are richer than white corn in certain vitamins.

A liberal late crop should be planned for drying, freezing, and canning.

NOTES ON GROWING SWEET CORN

Sweet corn requires more moisture during its growing season than normally falls as rain. Reduced to more practical terms, this means that the soil should contain enough moisture-holding organic matter to keep corn supplied with moisture when rainfall is deficient. This is a vital step in plans for this important food crop.

It is safe to make at least a small planting this week, with later plantings every two or three weeks until July 15 in order to have a continuous supply of fresh corn coming into edible maturity until killing frosts arrive in the fall.

There is no substitute for a naturally fertile, deeply mellow loam, preferably of a light clay texture, although sandy loams are satisfactory. Manure turned under deeply benefits the crop in supplying some additional plant foods but particularly in increasing the soil's humus content.

And while commercial fertilizer will not correct soil defects, from 400 to 800 pounds per acre of complete fertilizer, something near a 5-10-5 strength, increases yields and improves ear quality. Many growers mix acid phosphate with the manure. On commercial plantings the organic matter is most economically water. This will kill the worms as they feed.

Water peonies frequently and thoroughly to fill out the buds.
Divide clumps of chrysanthemums, hardy asters, phlox and boltonias. As they grow, pinch out the centers of the plants to make them bushy.
Start planting window boxes. The most popular window box plant for a sunny exposure is the geranium, with petunias second. Others are lobelia, weeping lantana, verbenas and nasturtiums. Good flowering plants for the semi-shade or shade are Begonia semperflorens (best in semi-shade), tuberous-rooted begonias; Impatiens holsti and fuchsias.

Remove the glass from the cold-frame on warm days and nights so the plants will become hardened before being transplanted to the open.

REDEDICATION SERVICES PACK CHURCH SUNDAY

The auditorium of St. John's Lutheran church was crowded to capacity and many could not be admitted for the opening service of Re-dedication Week Sunday morning. The chancel was banked with fern, palms and baskets of flowers. These flowers were presented to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Stover and I. H. Crouse and Sons, Littlestown; H. H. Crouse, Hanover; and Harry R. Lenker, architect, York. The palms and fern were through the courtesy of Koons's florist. The altar flowers were in memory of Eugene Morgert by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgert.

Special music for this service consisted of an organ prelude, "Melody of Love" by Mrs. Luther Myers, organist; and a vocal solo, "Bless This House" by Miss Kathryn Shriver, Springfield, Pa. Guest minister for the service was the Rev. George H. Berkeimer, Harrisburg, secretary of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the U. L. C. A.

The sanctuary which was completely renovated was re-dedicated by the pastor, the Rev. Kenneth D. James. This was followed by the dedication of the new, two manual pipe organ together with the following appointments which were gifts to the congregation as follows: organ chimes, Tuch-A-Bache Sunday school class; choir vestments and pastor's robe, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Shoemaker; clergy stoles, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Weikert; sanctuary light, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Myers and family; sanctuary stands, H. H. Crouse, Hanover; rubber lining in vestibules of church, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reiman; and gothic locks for the church doors, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hess and daughter, Brenda.

Gives Organ Recital Following the act of dedication and before singing the closing hymn, "I Love Thy Zion Lord," Ruby Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Myers, turned on the sanctuary light. The organ postlude was "Festival March" by James.

On Sunday afternoon, there was an hour organ recital on the new organ by guest organist, Miss Doris E. Baker, who is organist at St. Mark's Lutheran church, Hanover. This recital was well attended.

Rev. Fisher Speaks The re-dedication program was continued on Sunday evening, when the Rev. Wallace E. Fisher, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, Gettysburg, was guest minister and preached on the theme, "The Church, With Banners Flying." A very large congregation was present for this service.

Special music consisted of an organ prelude, "Reverie"; an anthem, "Infinite Ever Present Father"; an offertory, "Chanson Du Soir"; and a postlude, "Dedication Festival." The scripture lesson for the evening was from the 16th chapter of St. Matthew.

Tonight at 8 o'clock will be "Fellowship Night" when the Rev. Dr. John C. Brumbach.

A brief Mother's Day program was held in the main Sunday school room of Christ church on Sunday morning in charge of Glenn Unger as follows: Selection, "Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me"; school; poem, "Mother," Glenn Unger; selection, "My Mother's Prayer," school; vocal solo, "You Are A Wonderful Mother," Faye Ann Mummert, accompanied by Mrs. LeRoy W. More Than 47,000 Boy Scouts Will Attend National Jamboree At Valley Forge This Summer

This summer will see the largest gathering of youth in the history of the Western Hemisphere when more than 47,000 Boy Scouts and leaders from all parts of the nation and its territories will gather at Valley Forge, Pa., for the second National Scout Jamboree. About 570 scouts and leaders from 14 other nations will be guests at the encampment which opens June 30 and ends July 6.

The railroads of the nation will be rolling camps for about 75 per cent of the jamboree campers, or approximately 36,000 scouts and leaders who will use nearly one hundred special trains. Thousands of scouts will visit the nation's leading cities and scenic spots after the jamboree. Railroad associations, working with national scout officials are making it possible for jamboree contingents to go to Valley Forge by direct routes including side trips, at special railroad rates that will be in effect from June 1 until September 30.

Many Special Trains
All efforts are being made to move jamboree contingents by special trains to facilitate movements at Valley Forge to prevent undue congestion there and at Philadelphia, though which many of the trains would ordinarily pass.

Three railroad stations will be used for the tented "Jamboree City." In addition to Valley Forge and Port Kennedy on the Reading company tracks south to the Schuylkill river, there will be the Betzwood station of the Pennsylvania railroad across the river.

Scouts will bring their own camping gear, exhibits, and supplies for making attractive gateways typifying their home areas. Trucks will transport this material from train-side to campsites.

625-Acre "City"
America's newest "city" will occupy about 625 of the 2,033 acres of Valley Forge Park, owned and maintained by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which invited the Scouts to hold the jamboree there. Following the encampment the Scouts will have the grounds restored to their original condition.

The jamboree is a cooperative enterprise made possible by the $40,000 jamboree fee paid by each participating Scout. Scouts to be eligible to attend must be 12 years old and meet certain standards of rank and Scouting experience.

During the winter, survey parties began to lay out the camp. They will allocate 1,292 Troop camp sites each 90 feet by 90 feet. Each sectional camp will comprise 34 Troops of 35 Scouts or Explorers and three adult leaders. Each section will have a service tent for the Service Troop of older Scouts, a post office and a health lodge. Each will have an 18-head shower.

The Philadelphia Suburban Water Supply which lines cross the site will furnish 800,000 gallons of water each day. There will be six-and-a-half miles of water mains and four miles of sewer lines constructed for the jamboree camp. Twelve miles of primary electric lines will bring in 350,000 watts of power.

Scout Phone System
The Scout City will have its own telephone system, using 3-80 line switchboards with 25 trunk lines connecting it with the outside world. Already the telephone company has assigned a special telephone number for the tent city. It is "Jamboree 1950."

Carloads of Cereals
Providing ample food for a city of 47,000 persons calls for lots of planning. Scout Leaders will issue food each day in units for 10 persons and it will be food that won't need to be figured. Food will be cooked by the Scouts over charcoal fires. The Mendham, N. J. Scout Troop testing this fuel and sample menus discovered new economical ways of its use to such an effect that it surprised even the manufacturer.

servation, if needed. Three medical doctors and four doctors' aides will be in each health lodge.

Staff Of Inspectors
Each section will have its own water supply, shower baths, commissary department, including refrigeration for perishable food which will be delivered daily. A staff of inspectors will keep careful check on source and quality of all perishable food.

All cooking will be done by the Scouts. Paper dishes will be used and destroyed. Only cooking dishes, knives, forks and spoons will require washing. A detergent that will disinfect as it cleans will be used.

Five Trading Posts manned by the National Supply Service of the Boy Scouts will make available all items needed by the Scouts. They will carry Scout Uniforms and accessories, gadgets, toothpaste, towels, bed sacks, straw and souvenirs.

Each Trading Post will have an 80-foot snack bar featuring ice cream, soft drinks, frankfurters and hamburgers. A 24-hour photo and laundry service will be provided. Official Post Offices will be installed in the Trading Posts where money orders and parcel post service will be available.

Any profits of the Trading Posts will help reduce the cost of the jamboree. By keeping all costs down to a minimum the organization hopes to be able to rebate part of the jamboree fee.

A full program is provided for each day of the jamboree. There will be music and morale features including Scout displays, campfires, demonstrations, Scoutcraft events, inter-camp visits and tours. Excursions will be made to the historic shrines in and near Philadelphia. A guide service of 300 young men will be furnished by the Philadelphia Boy Scout Council. Similar guide service will be provided Scouts as they tour other cities following the jamboree. These will include New York, Chicago, Washington, D. C., and other principal cities.

Campfire Programs
On three evenings, Saturday, July 1, Monday, July 3 and Wednesday, July 5, Campfire Programs will be the big colorful feature. One third of the Sections will conduct these programs which will include Scout talent and visiting celebrities.

The remaining Sections of each of the three nights will conduct Troop or Inter-Troop Programs of their own choosing.

On the other four evenings great events are scheduled and all 47,000 will participate. Outstanding American personalities will take part in all principal ceremonies.

A dramatic opening ceremony will feature Friday evening, June 30, with pageantry telling the story of Valley Forge with the ragged Continental Army under George Washington.

The campers will converge from all directions to the arena. The ceremony will close with Scouts carrying torches across the grounds to light their sectional campfires.

Convocation Sunday
The Convocation on Sunday evening will be a common dedication to "Duty to God" stressing the unity of religion under Scouting. Freedom of religion and the onward march of religion will be portrayed by pageants starting with the Mayflower compact. An especially trained boys choir will sing. It will be an impressive sight as 47,000 candles are lighted.

On Tuesday, July 4, the Scouts will commemorate the birthday of the nation. The program that evening will include a fireworks display, fun, action and pageantry depicting the winning and development of a continent.

World Relationships—the Brotherhood of Scouting will feature the closing ceremony on the final evening, Thursday, July 6. Spotlights on this evening will be the Scouts of other lands. Each of the 44 other Boy Scout organizations around the world has been invited to send a patrol of eight Scouts and an adult leader. They will live in a section camp with the several hundred Scouts expected from Canada. The demonstrations will be international in character.

Religious Services
Dr. Arthur A. Shuck, chief Scout executive, will urge the Scouts to mingle with Scouts of other lands at all possible occasions, and keep in touch by correspondence, in order to help bring about a true world brotherhood.

The religious life of the Scouts at the jamboree will be recognized in services conducted on what was the Grand Parade Grounds of the Continental army. Scouts of Jewish faith will hold their services there Friday evening and Saturday, June 30, and July 1, with an assembly on Sunday morning, July 2. On that day there will be a Catholic Mass, a Protestant service and a Latter Day Saints service. Chaplains will accompany many of the groups to and from the jamboree.

RING BELL TO OPEN NATIONAL BOND CAMPAIGN

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP)—The historic Liberty Bell will ring out again tonight to sound the start of a drive during which the government hopes a billion dollars worth of savings bonds will be sold.

The famed bell—capable only of a toneless "dong" because of a crack in its side—will be tapped by U. S. Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder. The sound will be carried across the nation by radio.

After tonight's ceremonies—to be witnessed by descendants of signers of the Declaration of Independence from the 13 original states—replicas of the Liberty Bell will be taken to all 48 states and the District of Columbia.

These bells—cast in France just as was the original—will carry the slogan "Save for Your Independence. Buy U. S. Savings Bonds."

The campaign—with an official quota of $653,350,000—will end July 4. Treasury officials hope the quota will be exceeded by then.

In addition to Secretary Snyder, President Truman and Pennsylvania's Governor James H. Duff will participate in the ceremonies. A Catholic Mass, a Protestant service and a Latter Day Saints service. Chaplains will accompany many of the groups to and from the jamboree.

Opposition Swamps Turkish President

Istanbul, Turkey, May 15 (AP)—Turkish newspapers reported today that President Ismet Inonu's regime had been buried under a sensational landslide of opposition votes apparently stemming from popular resentment against the country's economic ills.

Inonu's government maintained a tight silence over the apparent unexpected political upset. But unofficial returns gave Celal Bayar's five-year-old Democrat party upward of about 300 out of 487 seats in the new Parliament.

As vote counting progressed, one high member of Inonu's ruling People's party said it was plain the Democrats were winning. Another People's party leader estimated that the opposition Democrats had won 343 seats by mid-morning.

HEADS CATHOLIC VETS
Philadelphia, May 15 (AP)—A three-year Navy veteran of the South Pacific, Frank Lamlein of Darby, is Pennsylvania department commander of the Catholic War Veterans. Lamlein was chosen at the concluding session of the state convention Saturday.

He will speak tonight on the "Independence Hour" hookup.

Business and industry are footing the bill of the extensive campaign to reach every man, woman and child in the nation. About 3,000,000 volunteers are expected to ring doorbells on behalf of the drive, including 200,000 newspaper carrier boys.

Freight Crashes Into Rock Slide

Hagerstown, Md., May 15 (AP)—A Western Maryland freight train thundered around a mountain curve into a rock slide 40 miles west of here today. Three crewmen were hurt when the locomotive and 15 cars catapulted off the track.

Fireman D. F. Jones and Brake-man C. R. Vier, both of Hagerstown, were critically injured. Engineer W. E. Turk, also of Hagerstown, had some cracked ribs.

Doctors said Jones and Vier probably will pull through. The exact nature of their injuries could not be determined immediately.

Rain was falling heavily as the 118-car freight churned around a curve leading into Indigo tunnel, about 12 miles west of Hancock.

A railroad spokesman said the persistent rain had sent tons of rock and dirt sliding down on the track from an embankment on the right of the west-bound freight.

C. O. Schweizer, local manager, and Miss Martha A. Furney and Mrs. Clara W. Kline, whose service totals 62 years, are attending the annual meeting of the company's Veterans' club in Pittsburgh today. The day of entertainment will be concluded with a banquet at the William Penn hotel.

The National Geographic Society describes the Puerta Del Sol as the Times Square of Madrid, Spain.

PRIMARY DAY CAN BE FREEDOM DAY!

Freedom from Meehan, Witkin and McClure. Let's fight for freedom! This election is of the utmost importance to you. It is an opportunity for every Republican—every free-minded, free-speaking and free-voting Independent Republican to reaffirm his faith in men who believe in decent, honest government.

As an American, YOU have the inalienable right of a FREE VOTE! This is your birthright as an American citizen. But, for too many years in the past, Pennsylvania voters, particularly Philadelphians, have treated primary elections too lightly.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP demands that you vote.

You must vote because right now there are men still practicing with the witches' brew of power-politics. RIGHT NOW IN YOUR STATE—YOUR OWN PENNSYLVANIA—they are trying to coerce, intimidate and threaten free-minded, free-thinking and free-voting Republicans into voting their way.

You know them—we know them. Meehan, Witkin, McClure—and their self-appointed candidate John Fine. Remember... John Fine is "their" choice for Governor—not YOUR choice—and you had nothing—absolutely nothing to say about the candidacy of John Fine.

But you did have plenty to say about JAY COOKE! For he was selected to run as Republican candidate for Governor by representatives of EVERY county in the state. Yes, fellow-Republicans, Jay Cooke is YOUR choice!

You have the choice between—

John Fine, a man who rides the political coat-tails of the infamous Meehan, Witkin and McClure plunderbund... or Jay Cooke, an experienced and honored statesman, a Purple Heart veteran of both wars and a civic leader of unquestioned stature and integrity!

REMEMBER THIS—MEEHAN, WITKIN AND MCCLURE AND THEIR WRECKING CREW WOULD RATHER YOU STAYED AT HOME AND DIDN'T GO TO THE POLLS—BECAUSE THEY KNOW THAT ONLY IF YOU—THE INDEPENDENT REPUBLICAN VOTER EXERCISES HIS INALIENABLE RIGHT OF A FREE CHOICE AND A FREE BALLOT—ONLY THEN CAN THEY BE DEFEATED!

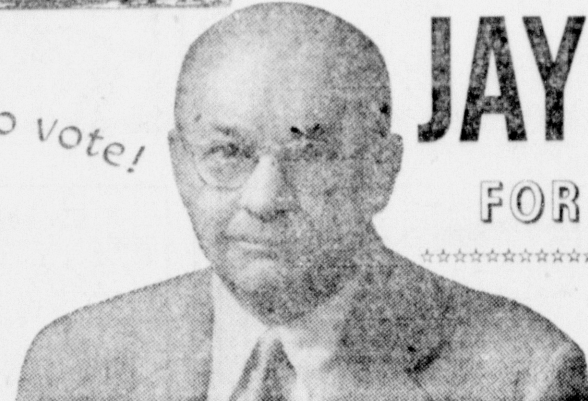

They KNOW that only a record turnout of Independent Republican voters can do this! And they are AFRAID!

Yes, for all Meehan, Witkin and McClure care—you can stay at home!

But, if YOU care—do your duty! Vote on Tuesday, May 16. Vote for clean and Independent government in Pennsylvania.

TRUMAN SPEECH IN CHICAGO TO CONCLUDE TOUR

By ERNEST VACCARO

Chicago, May 15 (AP) — Bubbling over with enthusiasm, President Truman held political court in a Philadelphi hotel room today before ending his western tour with a major speech tonight at Chicago's Jefferson jubilee pageant.

Chicago Democrats expect as many as 300,000 persons will crowd the streets tonight to get a peek at the president.

A colorful torchlight reception will welcome him as he parades to the Chicago Stadium to make his political speech at 10:30 p. m. (EST).

All radio networks and NBC television will air the speech.

Mr. Truman arrived last night from Madison, Wis., and went to the Blackstone hotel.

There a White House suite was open to a few of the 3,000 Democratic leaders in Chicago for a three-day national conference ending today.

"Non-Political" Trip
Cabinet members and congressmen brushed shoulders with state and county party workers in hotel lobbies and corridors outside.

Callers said Mr. Truman spoke happily about the size and friendliness of his audiences everywhere during his whirlwind 6,000-mile tour of 16 states in the west and midwest.

Mr. Truman's 13-car special train pulled into Chicago last night from a dawn-to-dusk stumping tour of 55 speeches in seven days.

It was all strictly "non-political"—he said so again and again—until the national committee took charge of the president's appearance here.

Throughout his 16-state ride, Mr. Truman virtually ignored the word "Republican" and members of that party frequently appeared on the platform with him.

He lashed out, instead, at what he called "old fogies," "reactionaries," "calamity howlers," "moss-backs" and those with minds like "little acorns."

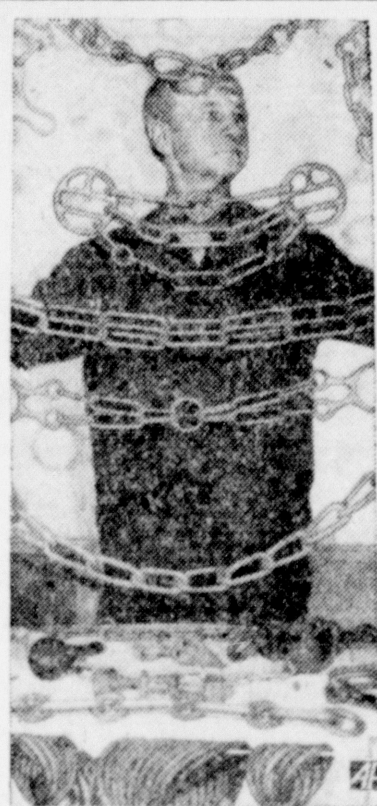

Criticizes Russia
He gave these names general to those who oppose his "Fair Deal" program which has been getting such cool treatment in Congress.

And he hurled his most severe indictments at Soviet Russia.

He told an audience yesterday at Madison that the Soviet Union is trying by every means "short of war" to wreck international cooperation for peace.

The president ignored one of his administration's most vociferous critics—Senator Joseph C. McCarthy—in his visit to that Republican senator's home state of Wisconsin.

McCarthy's charges that the State Department is overrun with communists and Communist sympathizers have drawn Mr. Truman's ire before, but he was silent yesterday.

BIG THREE TO PLAN DEFENSE AGAINST REDS

London, May 15 (AP) — Britain, France and America—determined to keep troops in Germany on guard against possible Soviet aggression—met with the other Atlantic Pact nations today to try to line up west Europe's defenses.

The main problem confronting the foreign ministers of the 12 nations, as they open their three-day meeting, is how they can afford to spend on defense without stifling economic recovery.

Some of the nation's military chiefs have recommended in secret reports far more troops and equipment than their economic experts say they can pay for.

Defense Stressed
The Big Three decision to keep west Germany an armed camp was announced last night. It stressed for the first time the defensive nature of the occupation troops, rather than their police duties.

Another upshot of the three-day meeting between America's Secretary of State Acheson, Britain's Ernest Bevin and France's Robert Schuman was their refusal to give the go-ahead on German peace treaty negotiations now. But they said occupation controls would be relaxed still further.

The ministers said in a communiqué:

"In view of the continued refusal of the Soviet government to permit inhabitants of their zone of occupation to rejoin their fellow countrymen in a democratic and unified Germany, it has not been possible, and will not be as long as this Soviet policy persists, to proceed to conclusion of a treaty of peace with Germany."

Leaders Satisfied
The Big Three made clear, however, that western Germany will be fully integrated into western Europe and gradually freed of controls to the maximum possible under the occupation regime.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and other west German leaders in Bonn declared themselves satisfied with the outcome on the Big Three talks and hailed the declaration as a step toward growing self-government in Germany.

Lock Haven, Pa., May 15 (AP)—A wandering parachute jumper today owed his life to the quick-thinking of a motorboat enthusiast.

Larry Hill, former Army paratrooper, was blown off his target yesterday during an exhibition jump at an Air Scouts show at the Lock Haven airport. As he landed in the Susquehanna river, he became tangled in the rigging.

Lewis Heimer, also of Lock Haven, was watching the show from his boat and picked up the struggling jumper. Hill was given artificial respiration and pronounced in a good condition at the Lock Haven hospital.

ENGLAND IS SWINGING MORE TO THE "RIGHT"

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)
The Conservative success in Britain's town and city council elections, at the expense of the socialists, represents a continuation of the country's political swing back toward the "right."

Now that doesn't mean the country is discarding Socialism in toto and is returning to the extreme Toryism of old. Rather it represents a readjustment in the social and economic leveling-off process which is remaking England both politically and socially.

A friend of mine aptly described the position in the remark that "the pendulum continues to swing."

Pendulum Swings Back
That's a good metaphor. The political pendulum took a violent swing to the "left" in 1945 when the Socialists ousted the conservatives, headed by Prime Minister Winston Churchill. It wasn't that the country had "gone Socialist," but that it was weary from the austerities of war and felt the urge for a change.

Then in the general election of last February the pendulum took such a violent swing back to the "right" that the Socialist government was all but thrown out of power. In the current town and city council elections the pendulum has continued its rightward course a bit further.

Pursuing our figure of speech, it is a fair guess that the pendulum that it oscillates and that each oscillation carries it a shorter distance until it finally comes to a stop—in dead center. That, I believe, very accurately represents what is going on in England politically and, as a consequence, socially.

Strong Reaction
It is a fair guess that the pendulum has reached the limit of its swing. From now on its oscillations will grow weaker until it arrives at what many folks regard as the ideal position of dead center.

And what of the reigning Socialist government? Here again I think we can well apply the figure of the pendulum. The Socialist party ("Labor party" is the official designation) itself has reached a period of indecision.

The government has carried its program of nationalization and other doctrines far enough so that it is getting a strong reaction of displeasure from a powerful section of the voters. That accounts for the recent setbacks in the elections.

LOST CHILD IS FOUND AFTER LONG SEARCH

Pleasantville, Pa., May 15 (AP)—A searching party found a lost two and a half year old boy today safe and unhurt.

Little Jackie Copeland, of Pleasantville, was found leaning against a tree only a few miles from where he had wandered away from a family picnic yesterday afternoon.

Members of the party which found Jackie said he apparently had spent the night in a nearby oil well power house. The boy was rushed to the nearby Titusville hospital for a checkup. He was found at 9 a. m.

Jackie was hunted all night by 500 searchers who used bloodhounds, airplanes, floodlights and lanterns.

Disappeared Yesterday
The little blonde toddler, who could walk "only good enough to get out of the way," disappeared while playing with four sisters after a picnic lunch on an oil lease yesterday.

The child's father, T. W. Copeland, was working around the oil lease in this northwestern Pennsylvania town when his oldest daughter, Mary Ann, seven, told him her brother, Jackie, was gone.

Searchers examined seven oil stock tanks in the vicinity in the chance the youngster might have tumbled in. All the tanks were covered.

The father joined other searchers. His wife was prostrate over the disappearance of her son.

Authorities said there are no streams in the area but most of the ground is covered with heavy undergrowth. Jackie, who was wearing a blue knit summer suit, just recently learned to talk and walk.

QUIZ YOUTH IN GIRL'S SLAYING

Milville, N. J., May 15 (AP)—Police held a young textile worker over night for questioning in connection with the strangling of a 17-year-old high school girl.

Lorraine Hess, a studious Milville high school girl, was found strangled Saturday with the belt of her coat.

Police spent last night questioning Samuel Lilly, about 25, Milville, but finally recessed for the night without filing any charges against him. They said they would ask more questions today.

They said they began questioning Lilly after a tip that he had been seen near where the girl was choked. They also said Lilly had no police record. So far police have announced no clues as a result of the questioning.

Yesterday they interviewed about a dozen of her classmates but turned up no leads. Her classmates said she was a quiet girl who "seldom had a date" and read poetry.

Foreign Ministers Discussing Orient

London, May 15 (AP)—The west's big three foreign ministers gave urgent consideration Saturday to strengthening the middle and far east economically and militarily against Soviet aggression.

In their final day of conferences before the meeting of Atlantic Pact foreign ministers, the diplomats — Dean Acheson of the United States, Ernest Bevin of Great Britain and Robert Schuman of France — dropped the problems of the Germans and Europe temporarily to take up eastern affairs.

Officials of the conference said the ministers felt "far east problems are urgent and definite decisions are needed and must be taken quickly."

It was expected that communiques to be issued later today would lay down general policies for future big three moves in Europe, but might be more precise and decisive on far eastern problems, particularly Indo-China.

As the warm weather season will begin soon, it is advisable to prepare your plans for handling eggs. During the cool season it is of less importance, because the germ development of fertile eggs does not start below 68 degrees Fahrenheit. Unless you sell eggs for hatching, there is no reason at all to allow males to run with layers, because infertile eggs keep much better. Chickens lay just as many eggs without roosters.

Right after your hatching season is over separate the males from the layers. Most eggs are of good quality when first laid. If they are to retain their quality, and reach the consumer in good condition they must be properly cared for. No marketing process can improve the quality of an egg, the main objective is to retain as nearly as possible the original quality.

Eggs should be gathered at least twice a day, using an open container such as a wire basket, and temperature should be reduced to around 50-55 degrees Fahrenheit as quickly as possible. This type of container allows the animal heat to leave the egg rapidly. Closed containers such as buckets and closed baskets prevent rapid cooling in summer. As soon as eggs have cooled, pack them in cases or cartons with the large end up. This aids greatly in retaining quality and protects the air cell, which is in the large end of the egg.

Packing as soon as possible also reduces danger of breakage. After being packed, keep eggs away from sunshine in a cool, moderately moist place to maintain quality and prevent evaporation. The most desirable temperature is 50 degrees F. with relative humidity of 85-90. Humidity may be improved by dampening the floor and placing open containers with water all over the room. A cellar is ideal for holding eggs, but care must be taken to keep the room clean and free from odors, as eggs easily absorb odors, for instance, from onions or apples. In such case they are not marketable. Refrigeration is the best means of storage. However, when stored at too cool temperatures and moved they will deteriorate faster than when not refrigerated.

An easy home made storage unit can be made at small cost and used successfully for holding eggs. A wooden frame with wire shelves to hold wire baskets and cases is enclosed by heavy burlap cloth saturated with water. The cloth is hung from a pan of water which is on top of the unit. An electric fan may be suspended from the top shelf to drive the humid air through the egg baskets or cases. Evaporation of moisture in the burlap cover will reduce temperature and improve humidity.

COOKE FOR GOVERNOR COMMITTEE—CARL S. MENCHEY, LOCAL CHAIRMAN

CONTROL OF GOP FORCES IN BALANCE

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP)—Control of Pennsylvania Republican forces hinged today on the outcome of the most furious primary election campaign in a decade.

More than 2,800,000 Republican voters will have a chance tomorrow to choose between two opposing factions which have slated complete tickets for U.S. senator, governor and other offices.

The result will be viewed closely for its possible impact on the 1952 presidential election.

The polls in the 8,347 precincts throughout the state will open at 7 a. m. and close at 8 p. m. (EST).

Duff Vs. Grundy
On one side is ranged Gov. James H. Duff, a candidate for the nomination for U.S. senator, and his gubernatorial running-mate, former Superior Court Judge John S. Fine, of Nanticoke.

On the other is former U.S. Sen. Joseph R. Grundy, long-time power in the GOP who is supporting Congressman John C. Kunkel, of Harrisburg, for U.S. senator and Jay Cooke, Philadelphia, for governor.

Duff has described Grundy as a symbol of "government by a few, for the benefit of a few, at the expense of the public."

Grundy retorted that Duff "wants to be the party leader" and in attempting to do so "has torn the Republican party to pieces."

Duff Stands On Record
Duff has campaigned on his administration's record on stream clearance, mental hospital expansion and improved highways.

The Kunkel-Cooke campaign cry has been against increased taxes under the Duff administration and a declaration that the next governor will inherit a $93,000,000 deficit.

There's a third figure in the GOP gubernatorial picture besides Fine and Cooke. He's Judge Charles Scott Williams of Lycoming county who has been stumping the state as an independent candidate.

Two Democratic Contests
Registration books showed that 2,862,112 Republicans were eligible to vote tomorrow. In addition there were 1,926,216 Democrats. Total registrations dropped off nearly 71,000 from 1949 totals.

Democratic voters were confronted with only two statewide contests: Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia city treasurer and organization candidate for governor, had only token opposition in Henry Arthur Morris, Mahanoy City piano dealer.

Michael A. Musmanno, Pittsburgh, slated candidate for lieutenant governor, is opposed by Mayor John P. Davis, Reading.

U.S. Sen. Francis J. Myers was unopposed for his party's nomination.

Both Republicans and Democrats will choose their candidates for all 33 seats in Congress.

Will Use GOP Words
Against GOP In Fall

Washington, May 15 (AP)—Pennsylvania Democrats are laying in a supply of ammunition which they hope will be effective against the Republicans during the fall election campaign.

Rep. Francis Walter, Easton, Pa., Democrat, disclosed yesterday that recordings are being made of Re-

York Springs—David E. Starry, well known travel lecturer and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Starry, who recently returned from Santibel, Fla., where he spent the winter, has on display a complete and beautiful collection of rare sea shells, gathered and prepared according to scientific methods while in Florida. He also has the set of West Indian voodoo drums, part of the "equipment" of the practitioners of witchcraft in the West Indies, about which Mr. Starry has written an informative article which was printed in "Etude," national music magazine, this month.

Improvement is reported in the condition of Mrs. Effie Fouk who was taken to the Kuhn Convalescent home, New Oxford, more than two months ago after she passed through publican primary speeches for use in the general election.

"I am just wondering what the Republicans will do this fall when they hear played back over the radio the things that the Republicans have been saying about Republicans," Walter remarked to Rep. Robert F. Rich, Woolrich, Pa., Republican during a brief exchange in the House on Pennsylvania politics.

GETTING TOUGH FOR BUGS TO BE SNUG IN RUG

By FRANK CAREY
(Associated Press Science Reporter)
Washington, May 15 (AP)—It's getting harder for a bug to be snug in a rug or wherever else bugs hang out.

Scientists employing atomic energy are invading the privacy of cockroaches, mosquitoes, houseflies, beetles and other pests in new attempts to achieve better control.

The scientists are putting ray-emitting atomic energy materials into the bugs so they can trace their wanderings or flight ranges.

Use Geiger Counters
They may sneak some radioactive stuff into the food of mosquitoes to inject a ray-emitting substance into the belly of a knocked-out cockroach and then free him to go about his business.

These radioactive materials can be detected for a long time in the insect's body by means of an instrument called a Geiger counter.

The scientists are also studying the habits of insects which often are pests to man in that they prey upon insect ravens. Also under consideration is radioactive study of insects which pollinate various crops, so that these beneficial creatures can be better protected from pesticides designed to kill bad bugs.

Six Purposes
Doctors Dale W. Jenkins and Charles C. Hassen, of the Army Chemical Center in Maryland, tell about the research in Nucleonics Journal. They say scientists are making a large variety of insects radio-active with these ideas in mind:

1. To study the migratory habits of various kinds of mosquitoes as a possible means of making better use of the weapons we now possess against such pests.

2. To study the speed and distances traveled by such pests as the Japanese beetle, cypress moth and European corn borer—the better to establish effective quarantine zones.

3. To advance knowledge of the way certain insects transmit diseases to plants. The scientists even see the possibility of studying how the parasite of malaria develops in an animal after it has been bitten by a malarious mosquito.

4. To detect natural enemies of bugs. In one study it was found that yellow fever mosquitoes are tasty morsels for the praying mantis.

5. To determine sources of insect food supply which might have been overlooked. For example, it has long been suspected that mosquitoes can take nourishment from flowers—but it wasn't proved until scientists made certain flowers radioactive and then detected radioactivity in mosquitoes buzzing around them.

6. To get new tips on earth-inhabiting bugs which prey on agriculture. Scientists are tracing the depth, location and side-to-side movements of such creatures in the earth.

Four is "enriched" by restoring some of the vitamins and minerals lost in the milling process.

PICKETING IN RAIL STRIKE IS SPREADING

Chicago, May 15 (AP)—Picketing was spreading in the nation's railroad firemen's strike today and hopes for peace grew dimmer.

The strike went into its sixth day with pickets halting or attempting to halt rail operations in widely separated areas of the nation. Effects of the walkout were spreading.

Representatives of the National (Railway) Mediation Board held separate conferences throughout yesterday with railroad officials and heads of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, who struck to enforce a demand for a second fireman on multiple-unit Diesel locomotives.

Negotiations "Derailed"
The conferences broke up around 11 p. m. (EST) last night and Leverett Edward, a member of the board, said "it looks bad."

Earlier in the evening, it appeared that the mediators might be making some progress in their effort to halt the strike of more than 18,000 firemen which began last Wednesday. But at 11 p. m. Edwards said these negotiations were "derailed" for the moment. He declined to give details.

Asked if any meetings were scheduled for today, Edwards replied that "we haven't planned any talks yet, but I hope there will be some."

Spread In South
In the south meanwhile, a union official claimed that every important sector of the 8,000-mile Southern railway system had been tied up or crippled by the walkout of 1,200 more firemen and engineers.

L. B. Johnson, Southern general chairman for the union, said trainmen from seven new divisions had been called out since Friday. He asserted that Southern operations in strategic areas are "practically shut down" and that every one of the far flung system's some 27 divisions was affected.

Pickets took up posts at Birmingham and other struck localities. They hope to halt all Southern traffic between New Orleans, Atlanta and the east and from Birmingham to Chattanooga, Tenn.

In central Illinois pickets made their first appearance late last night, halting two freight trains of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad at Pana, a point where the line uses tracks of the New York Central system.

One leopard reportedly killed more than 200 persons in one Indian district in two years.

Chapter 11

Andrew had found Morton in a bitter mood, and had left him in the main street at closing time. Morton had come in 10 minutes before, quiet and threatening as a storm cloud, so that when the Red Lion closed Andrew had said he would go for a walk to clear his head, which was in no need of clearing, but really to give Morton a chance to get over his ill temper.

The night and the moonlight and the country smells made him feel like a cat when it had the wind in its tail. So Andrew sang, because he felt curiously free and detached, because he wanted to forget Morton's lowering face and the wary eagerness in William Brody's eye, because he wanted to forget the office, and Hamlyn's offer, and more than anything the vulnerable happiness in Katherine Best's eyes as she had run past him with William to the theater.

His song ended abruptly. He came around the corner of the high Hawthorn hedge and saw Katherine herself standing like a pale ghost in the moonlight.

"Hello," he said vaguely, glad that it was Katherine. After all he was the representative of an important theatrical agent. It was not quite in keeping with that character to go caroling along the moonlit lanes. But he felt Katherine would understand, and in any case she was not the type to make a stock joke of it for the amusement of her fellow actors. He said rather obviously, "Are you just going home?"

Yes. She was silent for a moment. "I always seem to meet you when I'm afraid of something. You really helped me to get into Morton's company that day. I was petrified, and you gave me a sort of push that carried me through."

He said at once, "What are you frightened of now?"

She said, in the same hesitant, grave, gentle voice, "It's very stupid. I've been across the fields from William's to my lodgings often, but tonight somehow I'm afraid to go. So I was going around by the main road."

"Will it make you feel any safer if I walk with you?"

"Why, yes, thank you—if it's not taking you out of your way."

"I'm going to Morton's cottage. I'm staying there with him."

She looked at him without speaking, and he said, as he would never have said to a more sophisticated woman, "The night was sheer magic. It tempted me."

Walking silently, thinking of William she was startled when he said suddenly, "Why didn't William walk back with you?" Her head went up with sharp, resentful awareness, with the tossing, suspicious movement of a wild pony, but he went on inexorably, "Isn't he your sweetheart?"

His use of the beautiful, old-fashioned word startled her. She said sharply, "I didn't think you were the sort of person who asked questions."

"Why not? If people didn't ask questions, they would not get to know each other at all."

"Do you want to know me?" she asked.

He thought of Morton's rescue plan and knew she was beyond saving, but he surprised himself by saying quite truthfully and sincerely, "I do, very much."

"Oh?" She was startled.

"Why not?"

"I don't know. Why should you? You've only seen me twice."

"Four times," he corrected her.

"But why does anyone want to know anyone? Why did you want to know William?"

She said defensively, "William is just my friend. He didn't come home with me because he's going up to town early in the morning and is busy getting some things ready."

"He is? I may see him on the train. Perhaps he'll have lunch with me."

"I expect he'll be pretty busy all day. He's going to have some pictures taken. It's a good idea to have some modern ones as well as Morton's costume pictures in the front of the house."

"Yes." So he had not told her.

They came to the white washed backs of the main street shops, gleaming in the moonlight, the great black beams stripping the plaster.

She stopped at a small gate in the wall. "This is my place. Thank you very much, Mr. . . ."

She paused in surprise, because although she had resented his questions and decided she did not like him very much, she felt as though she had known him for a very long time. "Why, I don't know your name."

"Andrew Nolan." He made a little bow. The name obviously conveyed nothing to her. She just thanked him, and bade him good night, opened the gate and disappeared within. He turned about and strode off in the direction of Morton's cottage. He found he was angry, because as usual his chicken heart could not stand seeing anyone hurt, and he knew with a sense of foreboding that she was going to be hurt, and neither he nor anyone else could prevent it.

Morton flung the window open. "I thought I heard the gate go," said Morton. He sounded more cheerful, and a delicious smell of cooking seeped out of the window into the garden. "Come in, my boy," he called. "A juggled hare with red current jelly. . . ."

Andrew came to earth with a start. "At this hour?" he protested. "We'll be awake all night!"

"Nonsense; good food is right at any hour. It's all ready. What's the matter with you, lad; are you moon-

Man, 80, Held For Fatal Shooting

Carlisle, Pa., May 15 (AP)—An 80-year-old boarder was in Cumberland county jail today following the slaying of his 68-year-old landlord Saturday in nearby Mechanicsburg.

District Attorney William A. Mark said he was studying the case in detail before lodging new charges against David Hickernell. Mark said the retired railroader admitted shooting Frank Dixon.

Hickernell gave himself up to Police Chief Paul Bahn Saturday night. The officer quoted him as saying the shooting followed an argument. Dixon died at the Harrisburg hospital last night of three bullet wounds in the chest.
